To Whom It May Concern:
Relating to M & P Contractors

M & P have been involved as subcontractors on the above contract. The partitioning elements in which they have played an important part has been of substantial value.

From the outset the principals of M & P have demonstrated a willingness to co-operate and their attitude has been one of having the best interest of the job at heart.

As this is a design and build contract, from the outset they worked behind the scenes closely with British Gypsum and the architect in assisting in the production of design and detail development, including mock ups and samples on site.

During the currency of their time on site for the aspects and areas they have been responsible for M & P have shown a willingness to produce the goods which has been achieved to a high standard and to programme with proper and correct resources always in place.

At times of difficulty they have been reactive and responsive to the needs of the contract and have mobilised the necessary resources to recover or minimise the impact of the situation.

Above all they have worked and integrated well with other trades particularly the M & E contractors.

Theirs is a professional approach.

In conclusion they have been a major element in the successful progression of this very large fast track project. They have played their part in full with commitment. The principals of M & P have ensured this.

In the future I would welcome the opportunity of working with M & P again and would have no hesitation in entering into contract with them.

I would recommend them.

Yours faithfully
